Details

This contemporary pedestal by Charles Fultz reflects a blend of ancient and modern influences. Crafted from white plaster in the Greek Revival style, it features clean, architectural lines and a subtle nod to classical design. The piece is distinguished by four circular patterns decorating half the top and the top edge of the pedestal, evoking the fluid, surreal forms of Salvador Dalí's melting clocks in The Persistence of Memory. This fusion of timeless elegance and modern artistic elements makes it a versatile and unique addition to both traditional and contemporary spaces.

Charles Fultz, better known as Chuck, is a former celebrity interior designer who spends his retirement time creating sculptures.
